Fabrizio Busso-Campana Named to Board of The Dranoff International Two Piano Foundation

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. — June 23, 2011 — Fabrizio Busso-Campana, vice president of Marketorum, LLC, a Lambertville, N.J.-based marketing, business strategy and technology agency, has been named to the board of directors and executive committee of The Dranoff International Two Piano Foundation, a Miami-based nonprofit foundation that presents and encourages two piano performance.

Busso-Campana will head the strategy and marketing division of Dranoff. His responsibilities include developing and implementing action plans that advance the goals of the foundation, including its growth into other forms of two performer art. Busso-Campana brings more than 25 years of experience in operations, management and finance of startups and mid- to large-scale international companies.

"I'm excited to join the team at Dranoff and help them continue to be the world leader in two performer art," said Busso-Campana. "Dranoff is a very unique foundation whose story needs to be told, and I couldn't be joining a better team of people to help make this happen."

Busso-Campana has worked with Dranoff over recent months as part of the foundation's business relationship with Marketorum. However, his new position will allow him to play an increased role in organizational marketing direction and decision-making.
